

Phang Nga Bay Cruise

Phang Nga Bay – The Facts

Phang Nga Bay is located to the North East of Phuket and being situated between Phuket and Krabi province on the mainland it is sheltered from the seasonal monsoon winds making it an ideal cruising destination all year round.

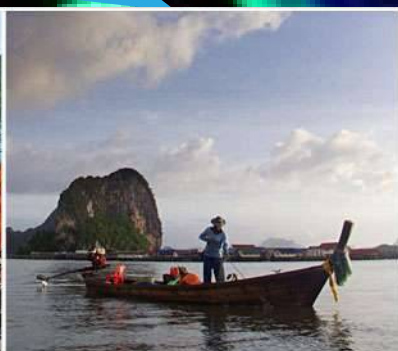

Phang Nga Bay is a 400KM² Marine National Park, which is renowned for its huge limestone cliffs formations can be explored by sea kayak, as well as Koh Hong, a wonderful emerald green lagoon situated inside the island.

The most famous landmark in the bay is Koh Tapu, better know as James Bond Island. It was here that scenes from the movie 'The Man with the golden gun' were filmed, and this easily accessible island can be reached by traditional Longtail boat.

Another popular island is Koh Pannyi, which houses a Sea Gypsy village, which is worth some time exploring

With so many islands scattered between Phuket and Phang Nga Bay it is also easy to find a secluded beach to relax on, and have a refreshing swim uninterrupted from the other large tourist groups.
